Ricky,

It was nice speaking with you today. Please see the TESS registration numbers in the snips below from the USPTO. I have spoken with the owners here we are willing to budge on the request for removal from US marketplaces if the trademark issue is fixed and any reference to Mini-Induction or Mini-Ductor is removed.

We ordered 5 units and every single one of them came with the attachment sent before. As stated earlier only way to rectify this at this point is to pull them all from U.S marketplaces. I figured I'd reach out as an honorable gentleman before starting the process through Ebay's Vero process, Walmarts brand portal and Amazon Brand Registry to report the violations and lock the accounts and see if we can reach an agreement.

Hi Clifford,

Thank you for reaching out. We are surprised to hear that our user guide includes your trademark(s). Can you show me exactly what you are talking about? Which links did your test buys come from?

I look forward to hear from you.

Thanks,
Ricky

I wanted to bring this up as the test buys that we have done show that you have left all of our trademarks that are registered to Induction Innovation's in your user guide. I am now going to demand that because of this discovery you pull your products from Amazon as we are in the midst of filing all documentation needed to lock the inventory and listing at Amazon. We will be doing the same with Walmart and Meite on Ebay.

Ricky and To Whom it May Concern,

We have noticed several times in the past that you have had Induction Innovation's registered trademark, Mini-Ductor®, within the content on your website and other advertisements. We appreciate your compliance in redacting these errors; however, it appears they continue from time to time. In previous correspondence with Ricky (salarysale@163.com) regarding Amazon, eBay, and Walmart accounts, it was stated that this would end. It is greatly appreciated that these violations do come to an end, as any future usage of our trademarks on any marketplace will result in legal action taken by the company's legal department. Please ensure these are removed from all sites, advertisements, and marketplaces in a timely manner.

Best regards.

Sincerely,

We have been seeing multiple listings from Solary/Meite that violate our Mini-Ductor® or have iterations that clearly violate our intellectual property rights. Please remove the keyword and phrase from online marketplace listings. See picture for example.

We are seeing these on Amazon/eBay. Any further provocations in these regards we will be forced to file VERO reports as well as Brand registry complaints in regard to this. Actions after that will include legal ramifications.

This is a registered trademark that you are violating.
